HOW TO REACH MILAN FROM MALPENSA AND LINATE AIRPORTS

Getting to Milan from Malpensa Airport

Malpensa airport is located 40 km to the northwest of Milan.

Malpensa Airport has two terminals which are quite far apart, so we recommend checking which terminal you fly out of because the bus or train to get to each terminal can vary. If you do make a mistake and go to the wrong terminal, don't worry since both terminals are connected by a free shuttle that runs every 7 minutes. Normally most traditional airlines fly from Terminal 1, and Terminal 2 is for low-cost airlines, especially EasyJet.

Train

Two train routes connect Terminal 1 to Milan's centre: the Malpensa Express and Trenitalia. The Malpensa Express takes 50 minutes to the end of the line and runs every 20 – 40 minutes. It will take you to Milano Centrale, Cadorna or Milan Porta Garibaldi. A one-way ticket to Milano Centrale or Cadorna costs €13 and trains run every 15 minutes approximately.

Bus

The bus company called Autostradale has a permanent bus service that connects the Central Station of Milan with Malpensa Airport's two terminals. The buses depart from Milan to the airport from 4 am to 11 pm, if you land in Malpensa, the first bus to leave the Airport to Milan is at 6 am until 12:30 am (midnight). A bus leaves every 20 minutes and it takes nearly an hour to get to the centre.

The bus costs €8 per journey or €14 if you buy a return ticket.

Taxi

Malpensa is quite far from Milan's city centre; therefore, taking a taxi is rather expensive. The journey has a fixed price of €95. The taxi driver shouldn't apply any extra charges. It takes 50 minutes to get to Milan.

Getting to Milan from Linate Airport
